“When Renata attempts to share deeper emotional context about her plantar fasciitis affecting 'more than just the foot thing,' ask follow-up questions to uncover her emotional driver and then synthesize an explicit North Star statement”

THE BRIEF

Ivan demonstrated solid pre-call preparation and provided consistently missed opportunities to probe for Renata's deeper more transactional rather than transformational conversational and program logistics, yet the call lacked a strong emotional impact her long-term engagement and commitment to the

DIMENSIONS

01 Pre-Call Preparation

8 / 10

STRONG

The coach demonstrated clear evidence of preparation by referencing the client's profession, injury, location, and program type from the intake notes without asking. There was a minor misstep regarding the sales representative's name, but this was quickly clarified.

EVIDENCE

- L5 Coach
- Oh nice, nice, yeah I saw you're a nurse, that's — that's a lot. Okay cool, well I'm glad we could get this on the books, I know it took a couple tries to line up.
- L7 Coach
- No worries at all, totally get it. What unit are you on, ICU right?
- L9 Coach
- Yeah that'll do it. Okay, so I've got your intake here, I see you're dealing with the plantar fasciitis, it's been what, over a year now?
- L11 Coach
- Right, right, fourteen months, yeah that's rough. Okay and you're in Tampa, is that right?
- L15 Coach
- Cool. So I know you talked to Marcus, or was it — who'd you talk to on the sales side?
- L17 Coach
- Marcus, right, yeah he's great. So he's got you down for Foundations, the ninety day, three cycle thing. That's the right one for where you're starting.
- L19 Coach
- Cool, and he walked you through pricing and all that already so we don't need to go back over that?

QUICK FIX

! The coach should have confirmed the sales rep's name before the call to avoid the slight hesitation.

02 Rapport & Tone

7 / 10

STRONG

The coach maintained a warm, friendly, and conversational tone, adapting to the client's energy and acknowledging her demanding schedule. The client opened up about her deeper motivations and concerns at several points, which the coach acknowledged but did not deeply probe.

EVIDENCE

- L3 Coach
- Awesome, hey, I'm Ivan, I'm gonna be your coach here at Halden Method. How's it going?
- L5 Coach
- Oh nice, nice, yeah I saw you're a nurse, that's — that's a lot. Okay cool, well I'm glad we could get this on the books, I know it took a couple tries to line up.
- L7 Coach
- No worries at all, totally get it. What unit are you on, ICU right?

L23 Client	Yeah, it's — honestly it's been a lot more than just the foot thing, if I'm being real. It's kind of turned into this whole —
L24 Coach	Yeah, no, for sure, plantar fasciitis is one of those things that just doesn't want to quit, right? It affects everything else too, the whole chain.
L37 Client	Okay awesome. Yeah I think that's — honestly the reason I wanted to actually do this instead of just, you know, googling stretches for a year, is I wanted someone who actually —...
L38 Coach	Totally, yeah, the DIY thing only gets you so far, especially with something chronic like this. Okay so let's talk about the actual program structure real quick, because I want...
L75 Client	Yeah, for sure. I mean that's kind of my worry a little bit, like, I've started stuff before and just — with the shift work my schedule's just so unpredictable, some weeks I'm...
L76 Coach	Yeah, no, we build flexibility into it, the program's not gonna be like "you must train at 7am" or whatever, it's more, you fit it in when you can during the day, and there's rest...
L85 Client	Yeah, that's — I mean that's honestly what I'm most nervous about, is like, is this gonna actually be different, because I've kind of, I've tried the PT thing, I've tried just...
L86 Coach	Yeah the good news is we've got a pretty specific protocol for exactly this, so it's not just generic stretches, it's actually built around progressive loading, which is different...
L92 Coach	Yeah, no pressure either way. Um, okay, what else — oh, [inaudible] — sorry, my dog's going nuts in the background, one sec.
L93 Client	[laughs] no worries.
L94 Coach	Sorry about that. Okay where was I, um, yeah I think we covered the main stuff. Oh — one thing, do you get like a specific day off during the week usually, or is it totally random...

QUICK FIX

!' When the client attempts to share deeper emotional context, the coach should pause and ask a follow-up question to allow for more personal connection.

03 Agenda Framing

3 / 5

MID

The coach outlined multiple phases of the call upfront, but the time framing was implicit and brief, and explicit client buy-in was not secured beyond a passive agreement.

EVIDENCE

L13 Coach	Cool, cool. Okay so what we're gonna do today is just kind of get you rolling — I'll show you the app, we'll talk a little about the program, get your billing squared away, and...
L14 Client	Okay, sounds good.

L48 Coach

- Yeah the twelve hour shifts are brutal on the feet no matter what, but especially with what you've got going on. Okay so let's talk logistics for a sec, because I want to make...

L49 Client

- Okay sure.

QUICK FIX

!' The coach should explicitly state the call duration and ask for the client's verbal consent to the agenda at the beginning of the call.

04 Goal Alignment & Deep Why

5 / 15

MID

The coach asked about the client's goals but accepted surface-level answers about walking without pain. Despite the client attempting to share deeper emotional context, the coach did not probe for the 'deep why' or construct an explicit North Star statement.

EVIDENCE

L23 Client

- Yeah, it's — honestly it's been a lot more than just the foot thing, if I'm being real. It's kind of turned into this whole —

L24 Coach

- Yeah, no, for sure, plantar fasciitis is one of those things that just doesn't want to quit, right? It affects everything else too, the whole chain.

L37 Client

- Okay awesome. Yeah I think that's — honestly the reason I wanted to actually do this instead of just, you know, googling stretches for a year, is I wanted someone who actually —...

L44 Coach

- Cool. So — what's the actual goal for you here, like what are you hoping to get out of this?

L45 Client

- I mean, mainly I just want to be able to walk without the pain, like just normal, not have to think about every step.

L46 Coach

- Right, yeah, walk pain free, that's the big one for a lot of our plantar fasciitis clients. Okay perfect, we can definitely work with that.

L47 Client

- Yeah I mean it's — it's been affecting more than just walking too, like at work I'm on my feet twelve hours and by hour six I'm just —

L48 Coach

- Yeah the twelve hour shifts are brutal on the feet no matter what, but especially with what you've got going on. Okay so let's talk logistics for a sec, because I want to make...

QUICK FIX

!' When the client mentions the pain affecting 'more than just walking' or 'this whole thing,' the coach should ask follow-up questions like 'What does that mean for you?' to uncover the emotional driver and then synthesize a North Star statement.

05 Program Explanation (3 Phases)

6 / 10

STRONG

The coach correctly identified all three canonical phases of the program (Retraining, Remodeling, Integrating) in the correct order. However, the explanation of each phase was generic, lacking specific outcomes or a connection to the client's individual goals.

EVIDENCE

L38 Coach

Totally, yeah, the DIY thing only gets you so far, especially with something chronic like this. Okay so let's talk about the actual program structure real quick, because I want...

L40 Coach

So there's three phases in the program — Phase 1 is Retraining, Phase 2 is Remodeling, and Phase 3 is Integrating. You'll move through all three over your three cycles.

L41 Client

Okay, and what's the difference between them, like —

L42 Coach

Yeah so it just kind of builds, each one builds on the last one. We'll get into the specifics as you go, I don't want to overload you with too much info on the first call.

L43 Client

Okay, no that makes sense.

QUICK FIX

! After naming the three phases, the coach should briefly explain the outcome or purpose of each phase and connect it to the client's goal of walking pain-free.

06 Journey & Expectation Setting

7 / 10

STRONG

The coach addressed the client's concerns about consistency and normalized the potential for slow progress and frustration with chronic foot issues. However, the explanation missed explicit emotional preparation for 'valleys' in the journey, distinguishing good vs. bad discomfort, or the foundational nature of the first month.

EVIDENCE

L74 Coach

Yeah so — I mean, honestly the biggest thing is just consistency, showing up for the videos so I can actually adjust things for you as we go.

L75 Client

Yeah, for sure. I mean that's kind of my worry a little bit, like, I've started stuff before and just — with the shift work my schedule's just so unpredictable, some weeks I'm...

L76 Coach

Yeah, no, we build flexibility into it, the program's not gonna be like "you must train at 7am" or whatever, it's more, you fit it in when you can during the day, and there's rest...

L84 Coach

Cool, yeah. And just — I mean I know foot stuff especially when it's chronic like yours, it can be frustrating, like some weeks feel like nothing's happening. That's pretty normal...

L85 Client

Yeah, that's — I mean that's honestly what I'm most nervous about, is like, is this gonna actually be different, because I've kind of, I've tried the PT thing, I've tried just...

L86 Coach

Yeah the good news is we've got a pretty specific protocol for exactly this, so it's not just generic stretches, it's actually built around progressive loading, which is different...

QUICK FIX

!' The coach should explicitly explain that the first month is foundational and not transformational, and prepare the client for potential emotional valleys in weeks 3-4, distinguishing good discomfort from bad pain.

07 Support System Clarity

3 / 5

MID

The coach clearly named the app as the primary communication channel and mentioned the community tab. Response time expectations were initially vague but later clarified. However, the coach did not frame or discuss the style of accountability.

EVIDENCE

L28 Coach

That's the one. So you're gonna click that, it'll take you to set your password, and that's the training app, that's basically your home base for everything — your program, your...

L34 Coach

And then there's a messaging tab, that's how you and I talk day to day, and there's the community tab too, that's kind of the group space where everyone in the program hangs out...

L36 Coach

Yeah so — I mean for me, I try to be pretty responsive in there, so if you ever have a question just drop it in and I'll get to it.

L88 Coach

Yeah for sure. Okay um, let me just double check I'm not missing anything here... okay so, one more thing, response times — so I try to check messages daily, usually I'll get back...

L90 Coach

Cool. And then the community tab, like I mentioned, that's more just kind of a — it's optional, but people post progress there, ask questions, sometimes I'll drop tips in there...

QUICK FIX

!' The coach should explicitly frame the accountability style, asking the client how they prefer to be held accountable or explaining the coach's approach to accountability.

08 Coaching Intelligence Questions

7 / 10

STRONG

The coach asked several logistical and background questions regarding equipment, gym access, and past treatments. The client volunteered information about consistency challenges and sleep issues, which the coach acknowledged but did not deeply probe to personalize the coaching approach.

EVIDENCE

L54 Coach

Cool. Now the other thing — equipment, do you have stuff at home, like resistance bands, a mat, anything like that? Or are we working with basically nothing?

L56 Coach

That's plenty to start, honestly. Okay and just so I know for programming, are you working with any equipment restrictions, like do you have a gym membership or is this all gonna...

L58 Coach

Totally get that, twelve hour shifts don't leave a lot of room. Okay, quick one — have you done any other treatment for the foot, like PT, orthotics, cortisone, any of that?

L60 Coach
-	Okay good to know, that's helpful context. And the inserts, you still wearing those day to day or just at work?
L75 Client
-	Yeah, for sure. I mean that's kind of my worry a little bit, like, I've started stuff before and just — with the shift work my schedule's just so unpredictable, some weeks I'm...
L76 Coach
-	Yeah, no, we build flexibility into it, the program's not gonna be like "you must train at 7am" or whatever, it's more, you fit it in when you can during the day, and there's rest...
L94 Coach
-	Sorry about that. Okay where was I, um, yeah I think we covered the main stuff. Oh — one thing, do you get like a specific day off during the week usually, or is it totally random...
L95 Client
-	It's pretty random honestly, we rotate every six weeks, so right now I've got Tuesdays and Wednesdays off but that'll change.
L98 Coach
-	And sleep — I'm guessing that's also all over the place with nights and days mixing?
L99 Client
-	Yeah, honestly it's pretty rough, I don't sleep great even on my days off, my body just doesn't know what time it is half the time.
L100 Coach
-	Yeah that's really common with rotating shifts. Okay, we'll keep that in mind, nothing to do about it right now really, just flagging it for myself.

QUICK FIX

!' When the client expresses concerns about consistency or mentions 'a lot going on,' the coach should ask follow-up questions to understand past barriers and how to build a sustainable routine for the client's specific situation.

09 Next Steps & Diagnostics

10 / 10

ELITE

The coach provided a clear, step-by-step pipeline for diagnostics, including specific examples of videos, instructions on how to film, and a precise deadline. The client's questions were addressed, and understanding was verbally confirmed.

EVIDENCE

L62 Coach
-	Okay, that's fine, keep doing that for now, we're not gonna touch that piece yet. Alright, so let's talk about what happens next, because this is the important part.
L64 Coach
-	So what you're gonna do — probably tonight or tomorrow if you've got time — is go into the app, go to that assessments tab I showed you, and there's gonna be a list of movement...
L65 Client
-	Okay, and how do I film it, like what angle or —
L66 Coach
-	Yeah so there's instructions right in the app for each one, it'll show you kind of a diagram of where to put your phone, side angle mostly. Should be pretty self-explanatory...
L67 Client
-	Okay, sounds good.

L68 Coach

So if you can get those uploaded by, let's say Friday, that gives me the weekend to look at everything and build out your actual program, so you'd have it ready to start Monday.

L69 Client

Okay, Friday, got it. That works. And is there like a certain outfit I should wear for the videos or does it matter?

L70 Coach

Nah, doesn't matter, just something you can move in, shorts or leggings, whatever you're comfortable with, mainly I just need to see the joint.

L71 Client

Okay, got it.

L72 Coach

Perfect. And once your program's live you'll get a notification, and from there it's just following what's on your calendar in the app day to day.

L73 Client

Okay that makes sense.

QUICK FIX

!' No quick fix needed; the coach provided clear and comprehensive instructions for next steps and diagnostics.

10 Booking Next Call

3 / 5

MID

The coach raised the topic of the next call but explicitly deferred the booking process to an assistant and a scheduling link, rather than attempting to secure a specific date and time live on the call.

EVIDENCE

L110 Coach

And then for our next call, I usually like to check in after you've had a couple weeks in the program, see how things are tracking, adjust as needed.

L111 Client

Okay, do we want to pick a date now or —

L112 Coach

Yeah, honestly my assistant handles the scheduling on that side, so she'll reach out to you probably later this week or early next with some times, and you can just grab whatever...

L113 Client

Oh okay, sure, that works.

L114 Coach

Yeah I'll just send you a link once we're a couple weeks in and you can pick a slot. Way easier than me guessing at your shift rotation right now anyway.

L115 Client

Yeah that makes sense, my schedule's honestly impossible to predict more than like two weeks out.

QUICK FIX

!' The coach should have attempted to book the next call live on the call, navigating scheduling constraints with the client to secure a specific date and time.

11 Close, Recap & Confidence

MID

The call ended with a logistical recap of next steps and a confidence anchor. However, there was no structured recap of the key content covered during the call, such as goals, program phases, or the journey ahead.

EVIDENCE

- L102 Coach
- Cool. Alright so I think we're in good shape. Let's see, we're coming up on time here — I know you said you're wiped from your shift, so I don't want to keep you much longer.
- L103 Client
- Yeah, no I appreciate that, it has been a long day.
- L104 Coach
- Yeah for sure, we can wrap up. So to recap real quick — get those videos uploaded by Friday, I'll build your program over the weekend, you'll be live Monday, and just message me...
- L105 Client
- Okay, sounds good, Friday for the videos.
- L116 Coach
- Right, exactly, so that'll work out better. Okay, well, I'm really glad we got this set up, Renata, I think you're gonna do great with this.
- L117 Client
- Thanks, yeah, I'm — I mean I'm hopeful, it's just been a long fourteen months so —
- L118 Coach
- Totally, well hey, get those videos in and we'll get you moving in the right direction. Sound good?
- L119 Client
- Yeah, sounds good, thank you.
- L120 Coach
- Awesome, thanks Renata, talk soon, and get some rest after that shift.

QUICK FIX

! The coach should have provided a structured recap of the key topics covered in the call, such as the client's goals, the program phases, and the journey ahead, before offering a confidence anchor.

12 Post-Call Execution

4 / 5

STRONG

The coach made specific commitments with clear timing, including building the program over the weekend for a Monday start and having an assistant reach out for scheduling the next call later in the week. These were concrete deliverables with associated deadlines.

EVIDENCE

- L68 Coach
- So if you can get those uploaded by, let's say Friday, that gives me the weekend to look at everything and build out your actual program, so you'd have it ready to start Monday.
- L104 Coach
- Yeah for sure, we can wrap up. So to recap real quick — get those videos uploaded by Friday, I'll build your program over the weekend, you'll be live Monday, and just message me...

L112 Coach

Yeah, honestly my assistant handles the scheduling on that side, so she'll reach out to you probably later this week or early next with some times, and you can just grab whatever...

L114 Coach

Yeah I'll just send you a link once we're a couple weeks in and you can pick a slot. Way easier than me guessing at your shift rotation right now anyway.

QUICK FIX

!' The coach should have committed to sending a recap email or a summary of key takeaways from the call with a specific deadline.
